Fiscal Analysis

ASSUMPTIONS:

1. The Bureau is hopeful that by having the authority to levy administrative fines, the propensity for repeat violations will be decreased. With this in mind, the bureau does not expect to see a significant windfall due to levied fines. A best estimate would be that since most of the fines levied would be for first offences, with few repeat offenders, and given that the fines for first offences range from $50.00 to $500.00, the bureau would assume that the increase in revenue to the General Fund due to these fines would not exceed $5,000.
